ELECTION 2012

FACT SHEET: KENTUCKY

Entering office amid an economic crisis, President Obama has consistently fought for the middle class, protecting children, and education. Here is just some of what has been achieved in Kentucky.

Strengthening the middle class

- The current tax system is NOT fair: In 2010, Kentucky corporations paid $384 million in state income taxes and individuals paid $3.2 billion — eight times more. (Source: U.S. Census Bureau, State Government Tax Collections Summary Report: 2010)

- The Social Security payroll tax cut instituted by President Obama is a first step to leveling the playing field — $1,000 more in take-home pay for a middle class family earning $50,000 a year. (Source: U.S. Department of the Treasury)

- Over the last two decades, on average the income of the richest 20% of families in Kentucky rose by more than $32,000 while the income of the poorest 20% of families in Kentucky remained about the same. Supporting educators, modernizing schools

- As a result of President Obama’s support for the Education Jobs Fund, signed into law in August 2010, Kentucky received $135 million that helped keep teachers in the classroom, limit increases in class size, and contain layoffs of counselors, classroom aides, and other education support professionals. At its peak, the Education Jobs Fund supported nearly 1,400 education jobs throughout the state. (Source: U.S. Department of Education)

- The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, signed into law by President Obama in February 2009, funded nearly 5,400 education jobs in Kentucky. (Source: U.S. Department of Education)

- President Obama’s American Jobs Act, which the Republican Congress continues to block, would provide $407 million for education jobs, $391 million to modernize schools, and $55 million for community colleges in Kentucky. (Source: A State by State Guide to the American Jobs Act, whitehouse.gov)

Improving health care

- In 2011, Kentucky received $1.7 million for school-based health centers that provide screenings, conduct health promotion and disease prevention activities, and enable children with acute or chronic illnesses to attend school. - The Affordable Care Act has brought peace of mind to 2.3 million people in Kentucky — they no longer have to worry about lifetime limits. (Source: U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, The Health Care Law & You, healthcare.gov)

- In 2011, nearly 18,000 young adults in Kentucky could remain on their parents’ health plans until age 26 — and that number will grow in 2012.
